VOL. III. GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1908. No. 46

TUESDAY EVENING'S CAUCUS.

The caucus called for Tuesday evening, to meet at the city hall for the purpose of selecting a ticket to be voted on at the municipal election on April 13th, had to adjourn to the Odd Fellows' Hall in order to accomodate the crowd that assembled at Fourth and Glendale avenue. The meeting was called to order by Mr. R. A. Blackburn. Mr. H. A. Coker and Mr. J. C. Sherer were nominated for chairmen, the latter being chosen to fill that position. The chairman made a few remarks calling attention to the fact that Glendale is a rapidly growing city and that it is very desirable that we act harmoniously in regard to matters of common interest. For this purpose he suggested that every one should be ready to give up some personal preference and that all should meet together on a common platform and select a ticket that we could all support, even if we each thought he could make some improvement upon it. City Attorney Baker was present and being called upon explained the somewhat intricate law governing cities of the sixth class. He explained that the present meeting was not required by law, but was competent to act in an advisory capacity and might appoint a committee whose duty it would be to circulate the required petitions for nominations. Further than this the meeting could instruct this committee as to the names of candidates to be put upon the petitions. Nominations being in order, Rev. S. L. Ward put Mr. Wilmot Parcher in nomination. He stated that he did this with great pleasure, as in time past he had taken occasion to criticise Mr. Parcher's acts with some severity, but that he recognized the fact that Mr. Parcher had given a great deal of time to the city's affairs and had been of great service to it during the critical period of its infancy, and because his general course had been so universally satisfactory he hoped to see him elected to succeed himself. A motion was then made that Mr. Parcher be the nominee of this meeting, to succeed himself as a member of the Board of Trustees. This was duly seconded and carried. The question then arose whether by this method of procedure there would not be a limitaion to the number of names to be put in nomination. The chairman stated that this would undoubtedly be the result and suggested that as many names as the meeting wished, might be put in nomination first and then a vote by ballot taken to select the five preferred. The suggestion was not acted upon, however, and the meeting proceeded to the selection of nominees as fast as named. Mr. Leavitt put Mr. Anderson in nomination and he was chosen to succeed himself. Mr. Goode nominated Mr. J. A. Cole with similar result. Mr. H. M. Overton nominated Mr. T. W. Watson to succeed himself, but about this time the meeting began to realize that the affair was drawing to a close too rapidly and complications ensued. Mr. White nominated Mr. H. P. Coker, but stated that he did not care to put him up against Mr. Watson. This was the result, however, and a ballot was resorted to to select the nominee in this case and Mr. Watson was chosen. Mr. White then nominated Mr. Coker and that gentleman was unanimously chosen for the fifth place on the ticket.

In short succession Mr. G. W. Woodberry was chosen for city clerk, Mr. T. W. Doyle for tax collector and treasurer, and Mr. H. N. Mileir for city marshal. Mr. Orrin Paterson was also placed in nomination for city marshal, but upon a rising vote, Mr. Miller was selected.

As a committee to circulate petitions for nomination and to attend to all details, the chair appointed Messrs. J. R. White, jr., L. G. Susemihl and R. A. Blackburn.

There were over a hundred voters present and the meeting was a most harmonious one, everyone apparently agreeing in the idea that the ticket selected was a good one and would receive their support.

A petition for the improvement of Everett street between Third and Sixth streets, signed by B. F. Patterson and seventeen others, was referred to city engineer to report on frontage. The city engineer reported as follows: Frontage required 1753 feet, frontage signed on petition 1982 fet. The city engineer was instructed to prepare the necessary ordinance recommending a grade on said street.

Application for permit to do street work by private contract on a portion of Louise street, was received from E. D. Reynolds accompanied by necessary fee.

An ordinance establishing the grade of certain portions of Adams street was taken up for a second reading and was declared read and passed to a third reading.

The president of the Board of Trustees and the city clerk were authorized and instructed to enter into a contract on behalf of the city for the purchase of a five-ton road roller for the sum of $450.00, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made.

The city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance repealing the salary ordinance.

The fire apparatus commitee was instructed to have the necessary work done to properly care for the apparatus.

Trustee Anderson offered a resolution appointing a chief of the fire department, which was adopted.

"AN INCIPIENT BLAZE," TEST OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

We never knew just the kind of a blaze it was, but having noted the word used in the metropolitan dailies, we put it into service to describe the first fire that our brand new fire department has had to contend with.

It was on Cedar street north of Third, about half past eight Monday morning. Mr. Woodberry, the city clerk, was sitting at his desk, musing over the problem of what to do with his munificent salary and perquisites, when the telephone voiced an alarm and the fight was on. Dr. Blackburn made a rush for the scene of operations, neglecting his tool chest in his haste; Attorney Susemihl loaned his real estate horse for the emergency and with the assistance of the "push" the animal drew the chemical engine to the scene of the conflagration in a wild burst of frenzied leisure. Meanwhile Town Marshal Nelson, Fireman W. C. Fraley and the Overton Realty Company personified were on the ground, the other real estate animal being harnessed ignominiously to the hose cart, which it sedately led to the scene of the trouble. But this was not the first party already the Rev. Burton of the Methodist church was on a coign of vantage on the roof of the Stutsman cottage and armed with a garden hose was doing the sprinkling act courageously and with proper vigor but inadequately—sprinkling is good enough as far as it goes, but it is hoped that Mr. Burton will telephone for reinforcements next time and get Rev. Stone of the Baptist church to practice immersion. The new fire hydrant proved rather intractable, but with a little delay the proper connection was made and a stream of water strong enough to bore a hole through a prohibition ordinance was turned upon the blazing building and the trouble was practically over. Credit must be given, however, to the chemical engine which, after Mr. Burton's efforts, was the greatest discourager of the flames. Seriously speaking, the work done on this occasion demonstrated the usefulness of our fire apparatus, for the cottage that was threatened would no doubt have been destroyed had there been no apparatus at hand. It is one of a number of residences in the immediate vicinity and a good blaze having proper start in that neighborhood is likely to spread to other houses close at hand.

The damage done would probably amount to a hundred dollasr and was caused by some trouble with a new distillate burning stove that had recently been put in.

SENATOR C. W. BELL, AT LINCOLN-ROOSEVELT REPUBLICAN CLUB MEETING.

Senator Bell, of Pasadena who made a winning fight against the machine in his district two years ago, spoke in Glendale Saturday evening to the Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican Club.

He spoke for nearly two hours giving an interesting account of political methods, particularly as used by the organized machine at Sacramento, showing how the railroad controls all legislation that it has any interest in. Mr. Bell's talk was interesting and instructive and it is a matter of regret that, owning to its not having been much advertised, a very small audience was present. The regular meeting of the club will be held next Saturday evening at the city hall.

CEAD MILLE FAILTHE!

Feis Ceoil.

Presbyterian Manse, March 17th.

Plans for the celebration of St. Patrick's Day are completed and the afternoon promises much pleasure, at the home of Rev. S. L. Ward, Third street.

Through the untiring endeavor of Mrs. Daniel Campbell, late president of the Aid Society, under whose auspices the affair is given, success is already promised for this most unique of social affairs and the spirit of hospitality, music and fun will be enjoyed in no small measure by those who will attend, and all are invited.

The first hour will be given to the reception. Mrs. S. Lawrence Ward will have with her in the receiving line Mrs. Thomas Ogg, Mrs. Frank Albright, Mrs. S. Galloway, and Mrs. McCoy, the president. Under the direction of Mrs. B. F. Nichols, the home will be most elaboraetly decorated in green and white, shamrock being in evidence everywhere. The second hour will be devoted to the Feis Ceoil, during which will occur a musical contest, when competing singers will sing the first verse of "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning" as follows:

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Oh, blest be the day when the green banner floated,
Sublime o'er the mountains of free Innisfail,
When her sons to her glory and freedom devoted,
Defied the invader to tread her soil.
When back o'er the main they chased the Dane,
And gave to religion and learning their spoil,
When valor and mind, together combined,
But wherefore lament o'er the glories departed?
Her star shall shine out with as vivid array,
For ne'er had she children more brave and true-hearted
Than those she now sees on Saint Patrick's Day.

Any one wishing to do so may compete, and names of contestants can be sent to Mrs. Daniel Campbell or to Mrs. George Williams, or handed in early at the door. Judges will be competent and fairness and justice will follow the fun. On the regular program occurs the names of Miss Mildred Hartsough, harpist; Elliott Albright, violinist; Mrs. Frank Albright, accompanist; Mrs. Lillian Dow, vocal soloist; Mrs. Abigail McCane, reader; Miss Jennie B., instrumental soloist, and Mr. Charles Warner, Irish singer and fun-maker, just over.

During the third hour the Irish menu will be discussed and among other good things there will be an abundance of fudge, slim-cakes, sultanas and Shrewsbury cakes, served with hot tea. Those having this last hour in charge are Mrs. M. P. Harrison, chairman; Mrs. C. F. Parker, Mrs. Knight, Mrs. Mary Fiske, Miss Fielding, Mrs. Sinclair, Mrs. D. C. Gillelan, Mrs. B. F. Patterson, Mrs. S. L. Ward and Mrs. G. E. Williams, en costume.

Those assisting will be, in Irish frocks, Miss Leita McCoy, Miss Irene Ward, Miss Esther Sinclair and Miss Berenice Williams.

Departing guests will find a silver plate at the door, for your free-will offering.

Mrs. Thompson, of Sherbrook, Ontario, who has been visiting Glendale for the several weeks, returned to her home, Monday.

GLENDALE, CAL., MARCH 14, 1908

Republican leaders have agreed to have some tariff revision. William H. Taft has stood for this from the beginning of the agitation of the question, even when President Roosevelt wobbled. These are not good days for the "stand-patters."

The advocates of the stand-pat idea, if honest, believe in an unchangeable tariff as a principle. Many of the newspapers that represent that idea are declaring in favor of Taft for president. Now as Taft is opposed to the theory which this portion of the press represents, it becomes an interesting question where in the end these journals will land. Will they give up the man or the principle?

Mr. Thomas W. Lawson, in defending himself for giving up his fight against the "system," takes occasion to allude to the general public as "spineless shrimps" for not following his advice.

Thomas may be a very wise counsellor, but if his advice as to political policies is just as valuable as the advice he has been giving in regard to the stock market, the public showed wisdom in not following it.

The New York Sun says that Mr. Taft's nomination "has been effectually provided against."

This is rather kind of the Sun (that shines for the "system), and now the way is clear for Messrs. Fairbanks, Cannon, Foraker and a few others of the "safe and sane." There is not much use in having that little quadrennial gathering of Republicans next June in the "Windy City," but it is too late to call it off. The Sun should have fixed it up sooner.

Tuesday Evening's Caucus

The harmonious action of the caucus held Tuesday evening to select a ticket to be voted upon at the city election on April 13th, is the most encouraging thing that has occurred in our town for a long time. The gentlemen named at that meeting do not represent any section nor any particular brand of civic virtue.

It is quite probable that the names selected are not as a whole the ones which a number of voters at that meeting would have chosen had they individually been entrusted with the responsipility of selection. But even in that event, the ticket would not have differed greatly from the one chosen and would have contained probably a majority of the names that now appear upon it.

The best feature of the meeting was the very evident desire of the voters present to "get together," and the willingness displayed to lay aside questions of personal preference and in a proper spirit of concession to abide by the fairly-expressed wish of the majority.

We have no doubt but that the men named at that meeting as the deliberate choice of the voters present will be elected on April 13th to steer our municipal bark safely through any troublesome seas that may be encountered for the next two years.

It is to be hoped for the welfare of our city that no opposition ticket will be given encouragement; it certainly would not receive the support of those present at the caucus, who are in honor bound by the unwritten rule of such bodies to support the ticket there selected.

Encouraging Anarchy

The cold-blooded, inhuman and execrable doctrines of the inner circle of the Anarchists, who believe that they are advancing the interests of their cause when they murder some one upon whom rests the mantle of authority, have, fortunately for humanity, but few advocates. Their followers are also comparatively few in number; but the fact is indisputable that it is the preaching of kindred doctrines by propagandists of various socialistic theories, that adds more than anything else to the number of recruits in anarchistic ranks.

The ignorant, the vicious, the moral monstrosities among human kind, find constant encouragement in the reckless talk that is indulged in by men and women, of kindly nature often, who work themselves up to a fine frenzy when denouncing the crimes of an indefinite "system," personified in millionaires and others possessing power and authority. Many of these people would not "needlessly set foot upon a worm," and are yet guilty of playing upon the minds of men naturally depraved so that they are nerved up to deeds of violence. What wonder is it that some wretch listening for an hour to some street preaching socialist who paints a Morgan or a Rockefeller in the lurid colors of a Mephistopheles, should fancy that he has a mission which can only be carried out by the act of the murderer?

It is not sufficient excuse for these preachers of discord to say that they are "sincere;" our asylums and jails are filled with the exponents of sincerity. We suffer from too much "freedom of speech," and no man has a right to stir up one class against another just for the sake of expressing his "sincere" conviction that all men are sinners except himself and his fellow theorists. And the writer who puts into cold print stale slanders against the rich or those in authority, is even more reprehensible.

There is but one criterion by which these agitators can be properly judged, and that is by the fruits of their preaching; and one of these is the man who lifts his hand in violence against his fellow man, all for a "holy cause" in which he, quite possibly, "sincerely" believes.

Harmony with a Large "H"

There was a grand "harmonious" meeting of the Republicans in Los Angeles Saturday evening last. It was a beautiful sight, an impressive one, calculated to create thrills that would cavort up and down the spinal columns of those present as they listened to the eloquent platitudes that fell from the lips of gifted speakers in liquid lumps of language that melted ere they touched the ceiling and leaking out of the ventilators were distilled into the circumambient ether to pervade the universe with an atmosphere of sweetness and light.

Oh it was joyful! There was Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, and there was Samuel Shortridge, Esquire, eloquent Samuel, who had come all the way down from San Francisco to warble a few tuneful warblings about the Republican party, to tell of the virtues of the City of Graft, of its "beautiful women and noble men, sir," and—whisper it gently and say it slow—to put Gen. Otis in nomination for delegate-at-large to the Republican convention at Chicago. The eloquent Shortridge, whose silver tongue has often warbled (for a consideration) of the virtues of personified vice, who never has refused a fee for the defense of a villain nor let one escape him if by condoning a wrong he could get it, poured coals of fire in metaphorical scuttlefulls over the defenseless head of the grizzled general who, not so very long ago, was wont to serve Samuel up trussed and basted and sizzled into a frazzle because of his services to the "machine!"

And there was Mr. Meserve, one of the chief spokes in the steering wheel of the machine, whose name has many a time and oft graced the pages of the Times in context contemptuous and severe.

And there was Gen. F. C. Prescott who, only three short years ago, was basted and done brown on the same good toasting fork of the doughty and grizzled old fighter from Awayback and Beyond.

And the Honorable Cornelius Pendleton, known to the readers of the Times as "Corny," the "Barber Statesman," charged in the pages of that paper time and again for many years with every crime in the calendar except a few not worth mentioning, and finally driven into obscurity as collector of the port of San Pedro.

Presumably Walter F. X. Parker and Judge McKinley were there, for where the machine is there they will be also; and how enthusiastically they must have cheered at the nomination of Gen. Otis, who has dished them up for breakfast a good many of the mornings during these last fifteen or twenty years.

Oh it was beautiful, inspiring, uplifting, umptious and other things suggestive of mellifluous mellowness, and it made the various hearts of those present thump with a prouder thumping as their memories dwelt upon the sore spots the general had made in times past and then reflected that now he has caved down! And what a cave my countryman!

Never such a cave was seen,
Save that one near to Bowling Green.

Friends of Mrs. Ellen Brown Newcomb are delighted to see her once more able to enjoy the beauties of her local garden and to hold court for her admirers on her broad and hospitable veranda.

Mrs. Fred Deal of Glendale was one of the hostesses for the Five Hundred Club on Monday evening, in Logan's Hall, Tropico. Those assisting Mrs. Deal were Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Brewster of Tropico.

Mrs. Etta Connor from Augusta, Maine, is visiting Mr. J. C. Connor on Sixth and Adams streets, for the purpose of being near her son, who is captain of the gun turret on the battleship Vermont.

The little daughter of Prof. Moyse, who was so seriously injured by the bite of a pet dog, last week, is getting along as well as could be expected. It is hoped that she will recover without being seriously marked.

The P. E. O. chapter L, was dismissed on Monday evening to convene for an adjourned meeting on Friday afternoon when delegates to the coming P. E. O. convention, to be held at the Ebell clubhouse, will be chosen.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Barnard, who for several weeks have been visiting Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Goss, left early in the week for Oklahoma and Kansas City, where they will soon return to their home in Iowa.

Anyone who can follow a tune can enter the "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning" contest. All you need do is to sing the first verse. Send your name to Mrs. Daniel Campbell, "Ard E'even," Home 'Phone 202; or to Mrs. George Williams, Sunset 872.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist-Episcopal church met on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Hendershott, Jackson street. Among the interesting things was the secretary's report of the recent convention. Dainty refreshments added pleasure to the social hour.

Several Glendalers enjoyed the picnic on Tuesday in Eastlake Park, held by Wyoming people who on that occasion organized a Wyoming association. Mrs. John Hawken of Valley View road, formerly of Sun Dance, was chosen secretary. Miss Beatrice Lathorn of North Glendale, was appointed historian.

Our old friend M. M. Eshelman writes from Lomita colony, that he is planting 15 acres of potatoes and that everything is prospering in that section. They have a well there that furnishes both gas and water a thousand gallons a minute of the latter and as the gas is utilized to pump the water, Mr. Eshelman says it is pretty nearly perpetual motion.

A farewell dinner was given on Tuesday complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Barnard, Mrs. Charles Birket acting as hostess, in her home on Fifth street. Covers were laid for fourteen, among them Mr. and Mrs R. D. Goss and son William, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant and Mrs. P. J. Ferguson, and Mr. J. R. Baker of Des Moines, Iowa, and members of the family.

Mrs. Perry, who formerly conducted the Albion Cafe, at this place, and whose ability as a caterer is of the first class, has opened a hotel at the old Lanterman place, La Canada, where she has rooms for guests and will make a specialty of serving automobile and other parties on short notice. The place is one of the oldest in that section, and is a delightful resort. We have no doubt that Mrs. Perry will make a great success of her enterprise.

The W. C. T. U. presented both the high school and the grammar school with a fine portrait of Miss Willard. Our item last week was misleading in that it stated that the grammar school only received the picture. Mrs. Gaylord made the presentation speech; Mrs. Julia Phelps also spoke. Friday of next week will be a red-letter day for the W. C. T. U. It will celebrate the birthday of Neal Dow and an appropriate program will be carried out.

The Ladies' Aid of First Methodist-Episcopal church are actively engaged these days planning the biggest ever hot dinner which they contemplate giving in the near future in the Odd Fellows' Hall, which will be made "home-like" and very attractive for the occasion. Among those who have the matter in charge are Mrs. P. J. Ferguson, Mrs. M. Z. Remsburg, Mrs. M. E. Brown, Madame Moyse and Mrs. McGinnis. Next week will be published the particulars and the elaborate menu, which bids to outclass anything of the kind offered to the Valley people this season.

Enter the competition. It's worth your time to try for the box of Irish bon-bons offered as award for best singer.

LOCAL BUILDING CONDITIONS AND OPERATIONS.

The lumber yards report a good business, the sales being heavier than they were a year ago. This increase is in part due, no doubt, to the falling off in prices, the flat rate now being $20 as compared to $30 per thousand feet at this time last year. Cement is also fifty cents per barrel cheaper, with some decrease all along the line in building material. Of course, labor is much cheaper also, so that altogether it costs twenty-five per cent. less to build than it did twelve months ago. It is not likely that his condition of affairs will long continue. The general feeling is that the bottom has been struck and that the next change in prices is bound to be in the nature of an advance. Home builders are, therefore, beginning to take advantage of existing conditons and when this becomes more general, the increased demand will naturally result in an increase in prices. The lumber combination has been jarred considerably by the new anti-trust law and has fallen to pieces in spots. The breaks will no doubt be repaired as soon as the parties interested are able to adjust tehmselves to the new conditions, for statutes have their limitations and combinations cannot be prevented for a very long time. The science of evasion having limitless possibilities. Building operations have for some time past been limited to houses of the bungalow type generally, but several buildings of a higher class are now being commenced.

Mr. Gansert is starting a house on Fourth street, east of the Valley Lumber Company's yard, which will probably cost $2000.

Mr. H. C. Bartlett has plans for and will soon begin the erection of a fine two-story eight-room residence on the corner of First street and Brand boulevard, 44 by 48 feet, costing $5000 or more.

At First and Louise streets Mr. Brooks is building two five-room cottages.

Another new house has been started on the Borthick tract by Mr. May, which will cost at least $2000.

Contractor Anderson is starting on the two-story fire department building on Glendale avenue and there is considerable talk of one or two new business blocks in that neighborhood.

Card of Thanks

I wish hereby to thank all those who assisted in putting out the fire at my house Monday morning last. Being absent at the time, I sincerely appreciate the efforts of my neighbors, which probably saved my home.

E. A. STUTSMAN.

AFTERMATH.

Just before going to press we learn that an opposition municipal ticket is to be put in the field for the election of April 13th. Of course this is a privilege belonging to our people which no one will dispute, but there was such apparent harmony at the meeting of Tuesday evening that we hoped there would be no contest. Certainly it would be a distinct gain to our city if no such contest should occur. The usual claim is made that the meeting of Tuesday was "unfair," but there was never a public meeting held in which such a claim could be made with less shadow of truth. It is too common for a minority to make this sort of an assertion, but it is a custom that does not grow more reputable with repitition.

We think it is a mistake to let the question of "prohibition" enter into the contest at all. This matter has to come up before the community at large for settlement on a direct issue and no board that may be elected will have any practical control over the matter when properly petitioned to submit it to the voters.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Winifred Sadler, one of the best of the tennis players and a popular pupil, has gone to Santa Monica. She was honored by two farewell parties last week, given by Miss Crouch and Miss Robinson.

Enid Watson has entered for the special history classes and drawing.

Miss Rowena Green, of the Sophomores, was given a surprise party, Monday night.

The physical geography class, second section, on Thursday and Friday, made a trip to the Chamber of Commerce and to Klondyke hill, looking up the matter of rock formations.

Mr. Wheat, county superintendent of schools, visited the school on Wednesday and expressed himself as highly pleased with the work.

A Teachers' Reading course, suggested by the county superintendent, has been organized by Mr. Moyse, chairman of the district.

Miss McLain acted as referee for the game of basket ball between the Alhambra and U. S. C. teams in Los Angeles, Saturday last. She reports having had a strenuous time.

New Grocery Firm

Messrs. R. A. Petersen and W. C. Fraley have formed a partnership and will open a grocery store on Fourth street next to the city hall in about ten days. Mr. Fraley has an extensive acquaintance in our community, where he has many friends. Mr. Petersen has had fifteen years' experience in the grocery business, and the two will undoubtedly form a strong and successful combination.

Attention

The citizens of Glendale are requested to meet in the city hall on Tuesday evening, March 17th, for the purpose of organizing a fire department and appointing a captain, for the same. All citizens are urged to be present as it is imperative that we have a fire company at the earliest possible date.

Sunday at the Ground of the Gun Club

The new shooting range of the Glendale Gun Club in Sycamore Canon, promises to become a very popular resort. Last Sunday there were 300 or 400 people out from Los Angeles, coming out in autos, buggies and all sorts of conveyances, many walking over from the railroad. All the visitors were enthusiastic in their praises of the location, the range itself, which is the best in this part of the state, and the character of the crowd that comprised the participants and spectators. The managers of the club propose to keep liquor off the grounds and to exclude all undesirable elements who might make their meetings anything else than orderly and enjoyable by the best class of visitors.

Raymond Obtains a License

SOUTH PASADENA, March 10.—Members of the board of trustees with but one exception voted last evening to permit the Hotel Raymond the privilege of selling liquor. Trustee C. W. Taylor voted against the proposition, which has caused considerable argument and ill feeling for several months. It is said that the trustees will vote a similar privilege to the Hotel Capitola at the next meeting of the board.—Evening News.

Letter from Africa

Benguella, West Coast of Africa, via Lisbon, December 27th, 1906.

My Dear Friends:

Since I last wrote to Glendale in September, I have had my hands very full, but now am taking a vacation and will try to get a letter written for far California. If my letter interests you I shall try to arrange for letters getting to you with enough regularity for you to follow my work.

Here there was nothing aside from the date but the calendar to remind us of Christmas, but with what trinkets we could gather from our limited stores, we tried to make the day one of happiness for our little black pupils. Oh, how hard it was, making gifts from our scant means knowing of well-stocked stores and homes in the home land. With the help of pictures I tried to have all get hold of the real Christmas thought, as I had been teaching the story for some little time. On the dear day I provided, with the help of a teacher, a feast and fed seventy-two. Having no dainty white linen we put bunches of flowers down the long table in the yard. My girls pounded the corn and we gave to each mush, meat and beans. What they could not eat they carried off with them. Each child received a foot of sugar-cane, a Perry picture and a string of beads.

In case your Glendale friends would like to send things for next year I am going ot take time by the forelock and suggest them now. Large colored handkerchiefs, combs, cheap teaspoons, enamel mugs, strips of strong gaily-colored cotton for sashes, writing tablets, common knives for our boys, lead pencils, balls, dolls, pictures, or little common dresses. Can be sent to American Board Room, in September, in Boston, and will be forwarded to me with my load.

There has been such a lack of rain, much of our corn has dried up, and the men have been sacrificing animals in the hope of getting rain.

Mr. Sanders, discovering the character of the clay here, made tile for our roofs which heretofore have been of thatches of grass. Our place looks much better. Our walls are made of mud bricks and these must be thatched lest they soften and fall during the wet season. We believe our tile will keep out a heavy rain.

We spend a great deal of time making books. Our press is very small, Mrs. Sanders corrects the proof, and with the boys' help we can fold a thousand copies in an evening. Then we cover and sew them, pressing the edges with a hot iron. In this way we have revised and printed twelve hundred primers and eight hundred Genesis. We are also printing one thousand copies of Luke and two thousand hymn books. This is our evening work. There is much sickness among us and we long for a good physician. Oh, if you could only send us one! So many of our people are helpless, sick and crippled. Two of our women have little babies and we have to feed them and care for them. One died a few days ago. I so longed to comfort that mother! I made a tiny casket the best I could and covered it with trade-cloth, which is sent to us to use in trade instead of money. I found some orange blosoms which I pinned to the cloth. I made a little dress also. This seemed better to the poor mother than having the child rolled in a cloth and lying on a mat by her door. We conducted a sweet service. Many gathered and were moved to tears by the dear story of the resurrection morn!

We have a brook near, so I have plenty of water. My girls raise my corn, and make starch for me of tapioca roots. This trade-cloth is sent to us in bales as there is no coined money in this country. It is of coarse white, or sometimes common print; we sometimes trade with coarse salt, needles, thread or buttons. Rubber and cattle are also used for trade.

Our Sunday collections consists of cloth, corn, peanuts or tickets calling for same at the trade-store, which Mr. Sanders opens every Monday and Saturday afternoon. Our oranges are, like yours, at their best now. If the little Glendale children would accept an invitation from me I could fill them on peanuts and oranges, but come soon, for my little black friends are very fond of these things.

Very Sincerely,
NELLIE J. ARNOTT.

OUR PROHIBITION ORDINANCE.

Mr. J. C. Sherer.—Dear Sir: It was to me, as I am sure it must have been to others of your friends who have known you so long and so favorably, a matter of regret to find you in this emergency against us, and especially so in this formative period of our city's growth, when as editor of one of our city papers, which will do so much to determine its future character and quality. Your good reputation in general, and your position naturally gives you much influence, and a corresponding responsibility rests upon you to stand for the best things in citizenship and for high ideals in our civic and moral life.

None of us perhaps would assert perfection of the ordinance, but by experience we may learn wherein it is weak and then make it more effective But as Republicans claim in regard to the tariff that it should be revised, if at all, by its friends, so we claim that a prohibitory ordinance should be revised, if at all, by the friends of the law. I think you have said to me that you are opposed to prohibition on principle.

You are quite positive that no lawyer would for an instant hold that its provisions are constitutional. State Supreme Courts go a long way and have frequently sustained a very extreme exercise of the police power of states and municipalities for the protection of the health, peace and safety of the community.

You are quite positive that the ordinance cannot be enforced. Perhaps the best way will be to wait and see. Perhaps it will not need enforcement. Perhaps all of citizens will be found to be of so desirable a class that they will spontaneously obey it out of respect for law itself rather than of becoming law-breakers because they do not happen individually to be in favor of the law. The law can no doubt be made more difficult to carry out by factional opposition and criticism, and lesser men will take their cue from men of standing in the community.

This Ordinance is not a new creation gotten up especially for Glendale, nor to meet conditions peculiar to this place, but was drawn by Mr. Baker for Long Beach, where he is also City Attorney, and where it has for some time been in force. And he informs me that, judging from his experience he has no doubt of its constitutionality, its enforcibility and its effectiveness. If it can be enforced in Long Beach, I see no reason why it cannot in Glendale, providing, of course, that our city officals are faithful to their duty, and that our citzens are up to the standard of citizenship of Long Beach.

You claim that the ordinance interferes with personal liberty. But that is what all law is for—to interfere with the personal liberty of the individual man in behalf of the welfare of the aggregate man—of the community at large.

When the Council requires me to build several hundred feet of curb and sidewalk that I don't want to build, or rather build it for me and put a lien on my property to pay for it, my personal liberty is invaded! but I haven't heard you taking my part.

If I buy a revolver with my own money, and put it in my own pocket and go about my own business as a peaceable citizen, there is no probability I will do anybody any harm with it. But one of these "petty peace officers" as you call them, lays his arbitrary hands upon my sacred person, takes away my revolver, hales me before some "petty justice" and I am fined or sent to prison. The Constitution of the United States declares yet "the right of the citizens to bear arms shall never be abridged." Where is my personal liberty?

A revolver seldom makes a good man a bad man, but liquor often does.

But I fail to see how so strenuous a believer in personal liberty as some profess to be, and in equal rights, can for a moment approve of Mr. Parcher's proposition to specially exempt a certain club from the operation of the law, to compel every man who would enjoy personal liberty to pay $50 to join it in order to do so. What becomes of those of us who have not that amount of money to spend in this way, or who might not be acceptable to the club either as members or as guests?

We who favor this ordinance are not merely anti-saloon men, though we approve of anti-saloonism. We are prohibitionists in local respects at least, if not in respect to state and nation. Of what avail is it to abolish the saloon and permit the same business to be carried on under another name and guise, the drug store or the social club? The drink traffic is so ruinous in its effects that it should be not merely regulated or restricted, but annihilated to the utmost possible extent.

It is less harmful under its true colors; the more you cloak and conceal its odorous features, the more you throw over it the glamour of wealth and refinement, and order and respectability; the more enticing and more harmful it becomes to the innocent, the thoughtless, the unsuspecting, the unwary. The better it appears, the worse it is, in fact. Rev. Mr. Ward has well asked, who is to blame that the law must be made stringent to be made effective? Who but those who exert themselves by every subterfuge and evasion to make the law nil and of no effect, and so bring it into disrepute with laugh and chuckle and sneer and "Prohibition does not prohibit," that "There is more drinking and drunkenness under prohibition than under a license or wide open policy, striving thus to dishearten the friends of sobriety and good order and persuade the weak ones that it would be better after all to license and regulate the traffic and so derive some revenue from it. The fact is that genuine prohibition has hardly had a fair trial anywhere yet, though it has had such partial trials as at San Francisco for a few months after the fire, and as it is now having at Atlanta and Kansa City, Kansas, with such happy effect as to encourage the most sanguine hopes of what happy effects would result if the principle were thoroughly enforced.

Prohibiton has in fact generally been sadly hampered, where nominally in effect, by the cries and clamor of a noisy, disorderly and lawless minority with the encouragement of a few citizens of otherwise seeming respectability, by disloyal officials, by enactments, purposely so contrived as to be easily evaded, and difficult of enforcement, by smuggling across the borders, under the protection of interstate, inter-county and inter-municipal commerce laws. But given a healthy, law-abiding, law-enforcing public sentiment, loyal officials, the support of pulpit and press, with proper instruction in the public schools and in the home, and there is no policy so calculated to bring peace and prosperity to a community, to promote public peace and welfare, as well as individual health, thrift and happiness as a thorough going policy of utter annihilation of the liquor traffic. This letter is already too long, but I am sure you are mistaken in claiming that the administration of the Lord's Supper is forbidden by our ordinance. If you permit, I may have something further to say regarding its effect upon business values and prosperity of our city, though I believe in the long run it pays to do right, but whether it pay or not we ought to do it.

EDGAR LEAVITT.

Judge Smith of the Superior Court last week in the case of the South Pasadena pool room:

"I think that it is the well-settled doctrine of this state that municipalities of the sixth class—and for that matter of every other class—under Art. XI, Sec. 11 of the Constitution of this State, have been vested with police powers commensurate with and broad as the State itself, and that they have a right to prohibit all business, callings, practices, and occupations which have a tendency to bad morals, profligacy and idleness." This opinion seems to fully cover the case.

(Mr. Leavitt, in saying that I once stated to him that I was opposed to prohibition on principle, gives the necessary explanation as to why I am opposed to the lately adopted ordinance. I believe that the idea of prohibition is neither consistent with statesmanship nor Christianity. In other words my ideal statesman is not a prohibitionist. My ideal Christian is not a prohibitionist, and he may or may not be a total abstainer from the use of intoxicants. Being as conscientious in this idea as any of my prohibition friends can possibly be in their theories, I will stand consistently by that position until I learn better. I am willing that the sale of intoxicants in our community be prohibited, but unwilling to interfere with their proper use; and do not concede the contention of the prohibitionists that they have no proper use.—J. C. Sherer.)

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The program on Tuesday was given under the auspices of members of the civics department and consisted in part of a concert—per phonograph—containing numbers by Melba, Maude Powell, Victor Concert Orchestra and applauded numbers like selections from "Madame Butterfly" and "Mother O 'Mine." The feature of the day was the fine address delivered by Dr. W. A. Lamb, a director and promulgator of the Los Angeles Arbor Day Association. His address followed the lines of "Civic Ornamentation" remarks.

Dr. Lamb spoke appreciatively of Glendale and of the great possibilities or ornamental work. We have the mountains for a sky line, the soil and the climate that afford great possibilities. He spoke of the contrast afforded in Golden Gate Park, where so much had been accomplished and where nature had done so little that even the soil had to be hauled in carloads. He would impress upon the minds of teachers and parents the value of the ideas of the young people in these matters. It had frequently happened that most valuable ideas had been suggested by mere children, and instanced a case in Golden Gate Park where one of its most happy effects was suggested by a mere youth. He hoped that the club would be able to interest the town trustees in the work. In this connection he spoke of the disappointment which sometimes resulted from putting "business men" in office. He had in mind a town where a board of trustees had been selected from the business men of the town and they had proved to be an unhappy failure. Get men of leisure, if possible, with enthusiasm for the work and they will make the best public officials. He spoke of the commercial value of ornamental work. It is something that pays from even a commercial view point.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Dr. Lamb for the interest and enthusiasm he had inspired.

Following his thought of planting, ever planting, in order to enhance the beauty and commercial value of our homes, Mrs. Edgar W. Pack suggested that members plant unlimited bougenvilleas. (Applause.) Mrs. Rehart responded by saying she had already begun, as her chicken yards were covered with it. Commenting very favorably upon what the speaker had said went on with the "we-haves," showing strongly the ready loyalty and city patriotism of club members.

Mr. J. C. Sherer, on behalf of the club and by request, thanked the speaker for the many new ideas suggested along the lines of civic ornamentation.

Mrs. J. N. Witham gave a report on the tree planting in Sycamore Grove, saying that the tree tagged "Glendale Tuesday Afternoon Club" was planted by herself and Mrs. F. L. Church, with the prayer "that every beer garden in our broad and beautiful country would be like Sycamore Grove, converted into a beautiful public park."

Rev. and Mrs. Graff of Highlands were on Thursday dinner guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant, Third street.
